DURING AND AFTER THE EXAMINATION

- Continue to follow all instructions from the invigilators whilst in the exam venue.
- No food will be allowed.
- Should you become ill during the exam, raise your hand to inform the invigilator. As is standard practice for all exams, paramedics will be on call during every session to attend to students who require medical assistance.
- Should you be referred by the paramedics to seek medical assistance that requires that you abandon your exam, you must apply for a deferred exam. Guidelines for this process are available on the Examinations site, which is accessed via the main UCT website.
- Disperse immediately when you leave the venue. Do not congregate in lobbies or passages outside the venues.

POWER OUTAGES

If there are multiple power outages per day, some venues may need to be reassigned or an exam may in an extreme case need to be rescheduled. If an exam has to be rescheduled it will be to the Saturday of that week or a later date. You will be informed via your convener of a rescheduling.

Please check your venue allocation on the day of the exam in case a power outage has necessitated a venue change.
